"Puppetry itself is a complicated field a kind of entertainment but also as a maker" --- Bob Flanagan

Societies have long used puppetry to investigate and communicate their cultural identities, moral values, and historical narratives. Puppet performances frequently showcase characters and narratives that mirror the societies they come from, providing spectators with an insight into the beliefs and relevant issues of those people. Religion and mythology have greatly influenced the art of puppetry. Puppets frequently assume roles in religious rituals, narrative discourse, and conveying ethical teachings. To communicate religious narratives to a population that lacked literacy, European medieval church rituals used puppets. Hindu epics and local tales closely connect with puppetry in Asia, creating a rich and dynamic cultural tradition of storytelling. These enactments utilized puppetry not just as that combines performance and means of imparting moral and spiritual technical skill with craftsmanship and teaching. In the field of puppetry, cultural humor, master puppeteer and puppet expression is of utmost importance. Consider Indonesia as an example where traditional shadow puppetry, known as Wayang Kulit, serves not just as a theatrical performance but also represents the complexities of Indonesian beliefs, social structures, and religious narratives. Puppetry remains a significant medium for the expression and preservation of cultural identities, whether through the enduring narratives conveyed in shadow play or the lively parades that embody societal critiques in a tangible manner.

The Chicago International Puppet Theatre Festival promotes and enhances the art of puppetry by showcasing sophisticated programmes that are essential to the cultural landscape of Chicago. The Festival is the largest puppetry event in North America, aiming to engage and inspire a wide range of audiences. It offers over 100 activities each year, including performances, workshops, artist intensives, free neighbourhood events, and symposia. The Festival attracts up to 14,000 attendees over an 11-day period in January.

programmes, videos, and images of performances, along with detailed commentary and connections to other resources regarding Festival performers, partners, programmes, and their work.

The success of all not-for-profit organisations, including The Chicago International Puppet Theatre Festival, relies heavily on volunteer leadership. We express our gratitude for the contributions of the civic leaders listed below, who generously devote their time, talents, resources, expertise, connections, knowledge, ideas, and enthusiasm.

The Festival's Strategic Plan for 2021-2026 aims to showcase and honour puppet artists from many countries, who will stage performances throughout the city catering to both adult and young audiences. The Festival has had consistent growth in various dimensions, including an increase in the number of acts, larger audiences, and a progressively expanding annual budget. Additionally, the Festival has gained a stronger reputation and has had a greater influence over the years. As the organisation began planning for the 2021 Festival, they were focused on expansion and looking for fresh and creative ways to attract new audiences and spread the influence of puppetry. Amidst the pandemic, cultural upheaval, and quarantine, a dedicated group of supporters, colleagues, and staff persevered in their efforts to advance the art of puppetry. They utilised this time to internally concentrate on creating a thorough 5-year strategic plan that would establish a trajectory for maximum growth and long-term viability. This plan was designed as a component of The Chicago Community Trust's esteemed SmartGrowth Programme and was also granted financial support from The ArtsWork Fund.

The Chicago Puppet Lab serves as a platform for Chicago artists to develop and produce innovative and unique puppet theatre performances. Since October, a diverse group of artists with different creative backgrounds and varying levels of expertise in puppetry has been gathering regularly under the guidance of Co-directors Tom Lee and Grace NeedIman.

Open Studio: Since 1898, the Fine Arts Building in Chicago has accommodated internationally acclaimed painters. The Chicago Fine Arts Building hosts Open Studios on the second Friday of each month, providing free admission to the public. By going up to the studio on the 4th floor, individuals will have the chance to encounter other wonderful puppet fans and observe the exact location where the enchantment is brought to life! The event offers a variety of attractions including light refreshments, engaging conversations, and displays by talented artists. Encouraging the use of public transport is highly advocated. Parking is available in the South Grant Parking Garage, with the entrance situated 30 feet from the building. Parking validation is not provided. In addition, there are paid parking facilities situated on Wabash at Roosevelt and Van Buren.

ANYWHERE is a magnificent and notable string-marionette performance crafted by the renowned French puppetry company Théâtre de l'Entrouvert. It was originally developed for the stage by Elise Vigneron and Hélène Barreau. ANYWHERE is a work that draws inspiration from Henry Bauchau's classic 'Oedipus on the road' and portrays the extensive journey of Oedipus and his daughter Antigone. Oedipus, who has been defeated, manifests as an ice puppet that slowly liquefies, then transforms into mist, and then vanishes in the forest, a location associated with foresight. Workshops:

This is the most important information to all the enthusiastic artists and puppeteers.

Every year Chicago International Puppet Theatre Festival organizes online workshops divided as one week workshops and Multi week workshops, in person workshops on Toy Theatre, Shadow Puppetry, 150 Puppet Hand Techniques and many more.

The list of instructors are Alex and Olmsted, Stephen Kaplin and Kuang-yu Fong, Myra Su, Linda Wingerter, Yael Rasooly, Mark Blashford, Paulette Richards, Vanessa S. Valliere, Roberto Rossi, Caitlin McLeod, Jaerin Son, Jerrell L. Henderson, Avner Eisenberg, Lindsey Noel Whiting, Blair Thomas, Tarish "Jeghetto" Pipkins, Tom Lee, Chad Williams and many more

Scholarships and bursaries are available to anyone who are committed to learning the art form. However, it is essential to remain watchful regarding the workshop notification and contact the festival coordinator accordingly.

The above information is taken from https://chicagopuppetfest.org after taking permission from the Ms. Taylor Bibat (She/Her) Festival and Education Coordinator

About Puppetes:

Hand Puppets

Dr. Arun Bansal

Hand puppets, also known as glove puppets, are one of the most common and versatile types of puppets. They are typically small enough to fit over the hand or fingers of the puppeteer and are controlled by moving the fingers, thumb, and hand. Hand puppets can be simple or complex in design, and they are often used in puppet shows, storytelling, educational programs, and entertainment for children.

Here are some key features and aspects of hand puppets:

- Design: Hand puppets are usually designed with a hollow body that fits over the puppeteer's hand like a glove. The puppet's head is attached to the top of the body, and the puppeteer's fingers can manipulate the head, mouth, and sometimes arms of the puppet. The design can vary widely, from animals and fantasy creatures to human characters and everyday objects.
- 2. Materials: Hand puppets can be made from a variety of materials, including fabric, foam, paper, and other lightweight materials. They are often constructed with soft, flexible materials that allow for ease of movement and manipulation.

About Puppetes:

- 3. Movement: Puppeteers use their fingers, thumb, and hand to control the movements of the hand puppet. By bending and flexing their fingers, they can make the puppet's head turn, nod, or tilt, as well as open and close its mouth to speak or express emotions. Some hand puppets also have movable arms or other features that puppeteers can control.
- 4. Voice and Expression: Hand puppets come to life through the combination of movement, voice, and expression. Puppeteers often use their own voices to provide dialogue and characterizations for the puppets, giving each puppet its own personality and unique voice. Facial expressions and body language can also be conveyed through the puppet's movements and gestures.
- 5. Versatility: Hand puppets are highly versatile and can be used in a wide range of settings and performances. They are commonly used in puppet theaters, schools, libraries, and children's television programs. Hand puppets can also be used in therapeutic settings to facilitate communication, storytelling, and self-expression.

Overall, hand puppets are beloved for their charm, simplicity, and ability to captivate audiences of all ages. They offer endless opportunities for creativity and imagination, making them a timeless favorite in the world of puppetry.

Summer camp special

Dr. Anirudh Srinivasan

Summer camp provides an optimal opportunity for children and teenagers to acquire knowledge and enjoy themselves. We design activities that include outdoor games, sports, music, art, and educational programmes to foster the development of essential life skills in participants. Summer camps facilitate the cultivation of confidence, self-reliance, interpersonal abilities, leadership qualities, and physical well-being in youngsters.

Educational institutions, religious establishments, community centers, and other similar entities typically coordinate summer camps.

Puppetry:

Summer camp special

Dr. Anirudh Srinivasan

Summer camp is crucial for children since it offers them the chance to acquire knowledge, make errors, learn from those errors, explore, collaborate with others, and reflect on their personal comfort zones. This is a period during which youngsters have the opportunity to acquire new artistic and creative skills, as well as develop their self-assurance. Engaging in meaningful activities to discover unfamiliar surroundings, using the resources at hand, and collaborating with a team on group projects fosters a sense of self-assurance in the initial phase and a sense of contribution in the subsequent phase. Successfully completing these two stages enhances the individual's self-confidence and prepares them for the subsequent challenge.

This is the time for social skills enhancement and leadership development. Every child gets to lead a group, play a game, complete a task, or be a leader for a day. That brings confidence and pride.

One can find a variety of themes included in summer camps. Some are full-fledged sports summer camps, while others include indoor and outdoor games. Most summer camps offer activities such as arts and crafts, nature walks, games, skating, museum visits, theater movies, and basic drawing and sketching.

Three major summer camps included Sphoorthi Theatre for Educational Puppetry, Art, and Crafts (STEPARC), one of which was a residential summer camp at Anvaya Public School. Mahadeva Nagara, H. D. Kote, Mysore. Anvaya Public School arose in 2011 with the purpose of providing excellent education. So far, it has impacted over 300 children between the ages of 4 and 15, ranging from Kindergarten to 7th grade. The school now has a high school building and campus. The main emphasis is on children who are economically and socially disadvantaged. The school provides free education to individuals whose parents work as daily wage labourers, earn below the minimum wage, or are single/divorced.

responsibility of parents but a combined effort of parents, family, educators, and the community, and we work closely with families to help the children reach their greatest selves. The school is passionately committed to providing children with rich cultural experiences. These experiences serve as a gateway for children to learn and explore different avenues, igniting their curiosity and helping them find their passion and purpose in life.

Here, again, the students were introduced to the art of puppetry, including Indian puppetry and different forms of puppetry, along with story selection, storyboard creation, puppet designing, and playing with puppets.

The subsequent summer camp, held from May 8–9, 2024, entailed the collaboration of school teachers and Act Kidz personnel in the production of rudimentary rod puppets. Act Kidz offers its staff training in art, craft, yoga, theatre, and other talents during the summer to improve their learning capabilities and expand their knowledge in other areas. These trainers are moreover accountable for instructing children at multiple schools situated in Hyderabad, Chennai, and Bengaluru. The individuals responsible for instructing pupils at multiple schools located in Hyderabad, Chennai, and Bengaluru.

Sri Maguni Charan Kuanr

Sri Maguni Charan Kuanr, an inspiration in the field of rod puppetry in Odisha and recipient of the prestigious Padma Shri award, passed away in Keonjhar on Saturday, June 1, 2024. His age was 88. He had been experiencing age-related illnesses for a while. Kuanr was a very skilled craftsman who excelled at creating rod puppets, crafting screenplays, delivering dialogue, and building up stages with hand-painted backgrounds.

In the January 2023 edition of Puthalika Patrika, we have published an exclusive piece about Sri Maguni Charan Kuanr and Mahipat Kavi. The URL provided is: https://sphoorthitheatre.com/Sphoorthi-Magazine-Puthalika-Patrika-archive.html
